

Mrs. Staub`s Friday Folder Newsletter
Friday, June 9, 2017

What a very fast week! We enjoyed Fairview on Monday and Tuesday, met with our kindergarten buddies, and practiced for our class play which we will perform next week for our preschool and kindergarten buddies. Next week we are looking forward to team color day, promotion practice, and a few other fun in class activities!

Language Arts and Reading: This week we continued to read in our class novel. We also read a fictional piece out of StoryWorks and discussed how a real robot would affect all of our lives. In addition we worked on the projects for our role model presentations and practiced what we are going to say when we present next week. Our week ended with students editing their promotion speeches, a tradition at our school, and practicing with a friend. Students will be given more time to practice and edit throughout next week! Thursday we will begin practicing promotion in the gym. All essays should be practiced over the weekend and resent to Mrs. Staub for a final round of editing if not done so yet. Next week all school novels and textbooks will be collected.

Spelling: There will be no more spelling lessons this year!!!

Social Studies: This week we brought in props and costumes, painted our scenery, and rehearsed our play so we can perform next week to the preschool and kindergarten classes. There was even time to continue with our unit on the Incas and Aztecs. Next week all textbooks will be collected. Please make sure you child(ren) bring their book to school if it is at home!
